INTERNATIONAL  PAPER

The National Watermelon Association Hall of Fame, with its beginnings in 2014, honors the distinguished leaders who have made significant, long-lasting contributions to the Association. Their individual contributions have helped to advance and ensure that the Association continues to thrive for many years. Their unselfish efforts to nurture and promote our country's oldest fruit commodity association is deserving of our highest honor.

A selection committee representing various facets of the National Watermelon Association will review the nominations and select the recipient(s) for each honor and induction.

A permanent display of the honorees is displayed in the offices of the National Watermelon Association as a tribute to those leaders that have risen to the highest recognition of all, the National Watermelon Association Hall of Fame. In addition, a Hall of Fame page is maintained on the NWA website to pay tribute to the inductees.

All nomination forms and supporting information will be due to the Selection Committee by December 1st to be considered for the next induction. Any information received after this date will be considered in the following year.

When a nomination is submitted, please provide as much detail and relevant information to support the nominee's contributions as you can. If possible, include a photo of the nominee (if one is available). The nominee's impact on the Association in particular will be the primary and main consideration; the nominee's impact on the watermelon industry will be a secondary consideration; and finally, other activities that may be of interest will be considered.

All nominations must be submitted using the Nomination form. Electronic nominations via email (Microsoft WORD or PDF files) are encouraged.

Please provide information that is creative, but not too lengthy. The form, related documents and any support materials should be emailed (or mailed) to the attention of the Selection Committee. We hope that you will join us in our quest to make these select leaders and their accomplishments known to future generations for many years to come.
